Growing Social Therapeutic Camps:

Growing Social programs offer students with social learning differences a unique opportunity to improve their social learning skills and understanding, while engaging in functional, meaningful and motivating activities related to animals, gardening and cooking. These sessions are highly therapeutic and are led by speech and language pathologists who specialize in working with students with social learning differences.

Growing Social Camp Students:

This program is geared towards students ranging in age from six-year-old to young adult with social learning differences including those with Social Communication Disorder, Autism Spectrum Disorder, ADHD, ADD and those without a formal diagnosis but who struggle socially. Opportunities for older students include participating as a Camp Counselor, Community Outing Camp, or Social Vocational Camp. In small groups of 5 or less, students explore and then practice applying social learning, executive functioning and related concepts through group activities involving farming/gardening, cooking and farm animals. Many camps take place on a small farmstead near Watsonville, CA.

Growing Social Sessions may not be appropriate for all students at this time:

Unfortunately, we are unable to support students in the program who have significant behavior challenges (i.e., extreme defiance, physical aggression, bolting, etc.). Depending on the student, we may be able to meet their needs through a shorter, more structured individualized program. Due to the fact that this approach is rooted heavily in language, it is most appropriate for students who have strong verbal and thinking skills.

Specialized, Integrated Instruction:

Social lessons draw on a variety of social learning treatments and tools including those grounded in social development and cognitive behavioral treatment such as "Social Thinking"™. Both Amy and Stephanie have extensive experience teaching social learning to children, teens and adults in both individual and small group settings.

Parent Component:

Each session includes a strong parent component, as we believe this to be instrumental in carrying concepts over into the home and to the student's support team. A 15-20 minute parent wrap-up takes place at the end of each session in order to provide the information and concepts covered each day. Parents are highly encouraged to attend these informative wrap-ups.

Creating a Community for Parents and Caregivers:

An integral part of the vision for Growing Social is to create an intentional community that honors, celebrates and connects families. We provide parents the opportunity to interact with other families, relax, and take advantage of the fresh farm produce. Some community-focused events include a fall family harvest festival, parent appreciation harvest dinners, and Farm to Fork to Learn parent education series.

Enrollment/Availability Chart:

Great care is taken in placing students in appropriate camp groups. Students are matched based on their ages, strengths and challenges including perspective taking, social language and auditory processing abilities. Indicating your preferred camp days and times does not guarantee placement, as there needs to be a good match with other students that have similar availability. Please be sure to fill out the availability chart in full. The more availability listed on the application, the more likely we are to be able to place your child in a group. If an appropriate group is not available, your son or daughter will be placed on a waiting list. We will contact you immediately if a group placement should become available.

Scholarship Funding and sibling discount:

The intention of Growing Social is that all students are able to attend camp, regardless of funding. If funding is preventing your son/daughter from attending camp, please complete the scholarship application form and send it along with your application form. A sliding scale option may also be available, please contact us for details.

*Families who have more than one child attending Growing Social will receive a 10% discounted rate.

Therapists:

Amy Miller is a Speech and Language Pathologist with an expertise in working with students with social learning challenges, and who has a love for organic farming and gardening. She has worked many years as a clinician for Michelle Winner's Center for Social Thinking, and then as clinic director for the nonprofit Teach Social. To deepen her knowledge and passion of organic farming and gardening, she completed the UCSC apprenticeship in Agroecology through "The Center for Agroecology and Sustainable Food Systems". Presently, she is using gardening as a vehicle to teach social learning, independent living (including cooking and nutrition), and vocational skills to young students through adults with social learning challenges.

Stephanie Madrigal is a Speech-Language Pathologist specializing in working with students with social learning challenges. She worked alongside Michelle Winner of "Social Thinking"™ (www.socialthinkig.com), in San Jose for 15 years, created the internationally recognized children's learning concept "Superflex©," taught students age K-adult, trained teachers, parents and professionals across the country and beyond. She is praised for her creative and engaging lessons, dynamic training style for teachers and professionals, and deep knowledge of "Social Thinking"™ and related concepts.

Service Descriptions

Weekly Camp Sessions:

Weekly fall camps are typically 1.5 hours per session. Occasionally, groups are available that meet for an hour or bi-monthly. Within small groups matched by age and skills, students are taught a range of social learning, organizational and self-regulation concepts and then given an opportunity to practice implementing these concepts and related skills through gardening, cooking, and related activities. The camps provide an engaging and motivating experience for students of all ages. Students are given the opportunity to increase their social awareness, ability to effectively work with others, and organizational skills in a supported and nurturing environment. This dynamic combination has proven to be incredibly successful and empowering. For older students, there is a heavier focus on community based learning, independent living skills and facilitating social-vocational learning.

Individual Camp Sessions:

Individual sessions are typically scheduled during school hours. One on one session can be especially helpful in working directly with the student on their specific challenges/situations or in preparation for participating in a group. Individual sessions can be very effective and helpful for our students as it mimics a group setting (they have to think about someone else) and can move at a pace that can optimally support the student's learning. Individual session spaces are limited. If interested in individual sessions, please also include available hours before 3:00 pm.

Social Vocational Camp Sessions: (Available for students age 16 through young adult)

Participating in a social vocational camp at the farm, or in the community, gives teens and young adults the unique opportunity to participate in a camp that mimics a work experience, to address job related skills such as asking for help, problem solving, organization, as well as exploring the more sophisticated social underpinnings related to the work environment that can often be difficult for students with social learning differences. In addition, they learn empowerment and skills to enhance their self-esteem and perseverance. These camps are provided when there are enough students signed up that are appropriate for this format. Please indicate on the application if interested in a social vocational group.

Educational Consultation:

Our goal is to support families and their educational teams. We offer consultative services, which may include attending meetings or consulting with parent and teams regarding IEP's goals, services, etc. Stephanie and Amy can also conduct parent and/or teacher trainings to support the social learner. Please contact Growing Social directly to inquire about these services.
